

Fix

Falling in love, like in a plastic bag Suffocating, lungs deprived of air Have to back off, I have to take care Not prone to romance, not Byron's heir

Here is my heart -- take it and explain (how it works) It has stopped my soul from love Too many times before (too many quirks)

Rumours of hollow shells Whispers in my head

Dismal affairs, like infected scars Unable to mend, unwilling to open up Another afternoon in Wayne's coffee shop Not trying to love you, but trying to stop

20th Century Plague

It's so sad when nothing gives you peace Disturbed by the mess that I see I'm a man in need But no one can help me

Don't bother if you see me Don't help if I bleed There is no cure Accept the fact I'm dying in this disease

It's the 20th century plague Poetry is dead It's the 20th century plague Mankind's fate

It's the trap they set without remorse Letting nature have its course I'm a man indeed Knocking on death's door

Don't bother if you see me Don't help if I bleed Nothing is sure Except the fact That I'm dying in this disease

Big Brothel

Those inexpressive faces Displaying useless minds Idiots with a tan And a one-year lifespan

I flip through the channels I flip through different ways Of humiliation Different freaks every week

And for us this seems Remarkable and sad That folk need To be stupid, to be bad To gain fame A fake respect A revolting reputation Is the key to the media nation

A famine in North Africa Genocide in South America Revolution in East Asia Suppression in Malaysia

Peace process in Palestine It's a battle of wits There's no place in the headlines 'Cause BB blonde got new tits

Fusion

Hold your breath Don't let those words out of your head I want peace, I'll bury the hatchet Drop your guard Drop your shield And the sword you wield Why do you need To see me bleed

Close your eyes I need you tonight We dream away from fearful fights Feel your way ahead Close your eyes I need you tonight Feel your way ahead I'm love in disguise

Hold your breath Don't ruin this needlessly Let's start again Let's see what this will take us No sentence of death No words of violence Embrace the silence You don't need

A New World Arise

The sky is red with the colours of the dead Feel the flames touching your face The fields are gone; everything is burned to the ground We hope for an answer, we hope for rain How can we move on, how can we explain?

This is a sign This is a wake-up call The ashes will be new life We have to face the dawn With hope of a better world

We walk away and let it burn We are too old - it's our children's turn To sow the new seeds and make it grow again To create their answers and create their rain

Plastic World

If you have lost the genetic lottery If you have had an unfair start You no longer need to improve your personality We have the means It's our specialty, actually

Don't compensate - imitate Don't compensate - operate

A plastic world Everyone wants a model look-alike A plastic world No one cares how you look inside

First step - immorality Next step - immortality

Next chapter - design your own child All you need is fantasy Inspiration is all around, in every magazine We have the means It's our specialty, actually

Don't compensate - imitate Don't compensate - operate

I Know

I know I saw both of your faces I know I have friends in many places

You've got me pinned to the wall I have a million questions I'm out of ideas, it's your call I'm open for suggestions

I know I saw both of your faces I know

I have friends in many places

I have known for a while Since you changed your perfume I've witnessed a change in style There is a smile where there was gloom I have known you far too long Sometimes I wonder If you're trying to get caught Parading in the necklace he bought

Like Leaves

It's getting colder The wind tore up the sea The rain is flooding the streets And we are falling We crawl back in our shell So weak So beaten But still we regain

We are falling like leaves We release Too hard to hold on So hard to stay warm All that kept us strong Within the darkness It's all gone

It's like a disease That could break a man out in tears A man that nothing fears Except himself The colours are dead and pale Fighting for survival Waiting for the winter day To fade away

Misery

Still seeking wisdom Something to fulfil my expectations Embrace my needs I have lived in solitude for so long Broken every record to maintain strong Shadows dancing on the wall Nail marks embedded in the concrete wall

I walk alone on this path Searching for answers - searching for love Regret the acts from the past, disguised as light I uncover a window - I fill the room with light I struggle for my life - revived for a second Disguised as light

This is my misery This is my doom The path I choose to walk The burden I have to seclude

I'm done with freedom I'm done with every other excuse To remain safe A life in solitude's a waste Taken every measure to maintain alone I'm sick with this life, I need a change I'm getting lonely, I'm getting strange

I walk alone on this path Searching for answers - searching for love Regret the acts from the past, disguised as light I uncover a window - I fill the room with light I struggle for my life - revived for a second Disguised as light

I walk alone on this path Searching for answers - searching for love Regret the acts from the past, disguised as light I uncover a window - I fill the room with light I struggle for my life - revived for a second Disguised as light

Fallen Star

Here you are waiting for the applause Eager to come back into the game Addicted to the sideshow Addicted to the fame You were in, but long ago Failed to reach the top Not knowing when to stop Going out, but not in style

It's a fallen star breaking up In the heat of the atmosphere Collapsing core, media whore I can't watch that It's a fallen star breaking up In front of those who were there Throat so sore, the show's a bore I can't watch that

Here you are waiting for the applause A new era, a new project name Or is it the same Prototype again You were in but long ago Failed to reach the top Not knowing when to stop Going out, but not in style

Symphony of Hope

I have begun to hold on to hope Am I enough to star in the scene she plays In her dreams

Hope is a storm and I am so weak I hold on to her, I feel like a freak We fight the winds, love is a kite We hold on to the rope We hold on to hope

We walk over mountains We walk over crystal lakes A magic moment, we embrace Caught inside the fairytale The lovers' secret place

Fear is a shield and I am afraid Love is so strong, it's like a grenade We stand our ground, love is an anchor We hold on to the rope We hold on to hope

Psycho Blonde

With or without me she plays And she comes two or three times a day She is born to love and lust Without that she crumbles to dust She is born to love and lust Without that she crumbles to dust

Therapy doesn't seem to work anymore It only adds to the hurt and the sore When we are out she makes me wear handcuffs She's far too much and not nearly enough

She never ever gives me room I fear I'll suffocate soon Psycho blonde -- I'm not your toy She never ever gives me room I fear I'll suffocate soon Find yourself another psycho boy

I begged her to get herself fixed I'm tired of games and I'm sick of tricks I had to move to stop seeing her again She has a way to crawl back into my head

Phosphor

Whirlwinds of beauty tormenting the heart Less than light, more than dark Chaos is tearing their lives apart Less than something, more than nothing

Fake smiles are burning like phosphor Modern men in their modern corps Too much power to remain sane Too much adrenaline to feel the pain

Figurines dance at the horizon Puppets that drink acid and breathe ozone Pieces when Gods are playing chess Embodied lifelessness

Life and death at their disposal Live or die, roll the dice Too many decisions not enough facts A conscience is a cheap sacrifice
